THE NATIVE TRADER—PAST AND PRESENT

A RETROSPECTION of the Chinese Trader as he was a decade ago and as he is now affords an illuminating and vivid contrast. The old type of native merchant was a shrewd, level-headed trader, conservative to a degree, and one who worked within his working capital. He knew his market thoroughly, and its requirements, and could gauge the tone to a nicety. If occasionally he took a flutter and indulged in speculative forward buying it was usually within the scope of his own resources and or those of his immediate friends, for the system did exist then and does so yet in a very modified way, that the Chinese trader underwrites or guarantees the deals of his close friends.

If he got in a jam he would appeal to his friends to help him out and succour was always forthcoming, for a moderate consideration, and there was no necessity to appeal to the native banks to be tided over, for the dealer's friends knew well and appreciated the factor of reciprocity.

The gamble or speculation was usually in goods and not in exchange for the fluctuations of the latter, until the days of the Great War, were more or less nominal, the Tael varying from a thirty second to a quarter of a penny. The old type of dealer was a great student of human nature and personality was the keynote to success in obtaining his business. It is an axiom in the China Trade that a firm's business is to a very large extent limited to the number of its Compradore's friends, so that the wider the circle of friends and acquaintances a Compradore had the more "face" would he have and the greater number of Customers would the Hong get.

It was, and is still, unusual for a dealer to place an order with a Firm whose compradore was personally unknown to the Trader. The dealer felt that he should place his business only with a Firm whose Comprador was his personal friend and the Comprador on his part was reluctant to "chop" or guarantee a contract from a merchant who was unknown to him. Goods were not always sold on their merits nor at strictly competitive prices for it is well known that if all things were even approximately equal a dealer would often pay a slightly higher price to a Firm, which had his friendship and confidence, than to a competitive Hong which he did not know particularly well or like.

The system of trading a generation ago was of a slow and leisurely type, the merchant preferring to take all the time he wanted in inspecting samples or considering prices. Very often this led to an apparently endless waste of time but it paid in the end, for the dealer utilised this time to sizing up the seller and once he was satisfied and obtained the respect and confidence necessary, business was easy and mutually satisfactory. The Hong employees and departmental managers used to make a point of cultivating the acquaintance of the dealer until each side knew the other thoroughly or as thoroughly as an Occidental can really know an Oriental.

Notwithstanding the handicap of language in the lingua franca or "pidgin" English, with its limited vocabulary, it was astonishing what a range of subjects could be covered by those who took the trouble to learn this jargon properly. The dealer would make a round of calls on the Hongs with whom he was friendly, and after the inevitable tea in the Compradore's Office a further call could be made on the Taipan or Departmental Manager to ascertain the latest quotation, see the new sample and discuss matters in general. The dealer would of course be greeted by the foreigner by name for it was a very poor Executive who did not make it his business personally to know as much as possible about the Firm's native clients. A cigar would be offered the dealer and invariably accepted and discerning Chinese dealers with a propensity for enjoying a good smoke were not reluctant in asking the Taipan for one of his own weeds instead of the average dealer's cigar.

A conversation would follow, usually of a triangular nature, for the Compradore or Commodity shroff would be present to act as an interpreter in case of need. The conversation would first be of a complimentary and general nature and nearly everything under the sun was mentioned except the specific business in which the dealer was interested and like all good things this was left to the last. Once the business was discussed and a point of understanding arrived at, the dealer would laconically say "Puttee Book" which was

INDUSTRIES IN BRITAIN URGE ACTION TO END CHINA'S CHAOS

Mere Protective Measures Not Enough, Says Statement

ASK CONFERENCE

Federation Writes To Curzon Suggesting Parleys

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—The Federation of British Industries has written to Marquess Curzon drawing attention to the resolution adopted by the Federation's Overseas Committee which strongly urges the Government to take the initiative in calling as early as possible a conference of the Powers signatories to the Washington Convention to consider what steps should be taken to restore order in China. The Federation, referring to the proposal for gendarmerie under foreign officers, remarks that it now seems that the situation in China calls for more than merely protective measures.

Ex-Australian Premier Favors Singapore Base

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, July 30.—In the House of Representatives today the former Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, criticising Mr. S. M. Bruce's recent pronouncement, said that Australia could only be defended with Britain's aid. Australia's contribution should be generous. The Singapore base must be supported, but he alleged that Mr. Bruce had failed to say so.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30.—The Government was again heckled in the House of Commons today by some of its opponents on the Singapore scheme.

Replying to Mr. George Lambert, Liberal Member for South Molton, Mr. Stanley Baldwin said that it had been officially denied that Count Uchida, the Japanese Foreign Minister, had stated that the new base conflicted with the spirit of the Washington Treaty.

The British Government did not consider that any useful purpose would be served by raising a discussion with the Japanese Government on the subject. The Prime Minister reiterated that during the Washington Conference Britain had made it clear that she reserved the right of action at Singapore.

All the other Governments concerned fully understood this. He had not seen the alleged statement of a Japanese Minister that, owing to the proximity of the Singapore base, Japan would have to take special defensive measures.

'Barney Googles' Papa Coming To Shanghai Soon

Billy De Beck, the famous American cartoonist whose "Barney Google" and "Spark Plug" cartoons delight readers of THE CHINA PRESS every day, has sailed from San Francisco for Hawaii, where he will visit for a short time before coming on to Japan and China.

It is possible that De Beck will be in Shanghai in time to enter his famous nag in the Fall races. What wouldn't Shanghai give to see "Spark Plug" cavorting around the local Race Course?

BY J. L. BUTTS

Having purloined a negotiable brass kettle, Phen Li-pau took it into a pawnshop to complete the transaction. He argued so long with the pawnbroker on the merits of the kitchenware that Detective Ching Yoong, bounding along on the trail of the missing article, burst into the discussion and and brought the deal to a close. On his way in the officer picked up another person, stationed in the doorway and wearing a suspicious look.

Phen said yes, he had stolen the kettle, and also yes, he had stationed the other party at the door. But, said Phen with tears in his voice, the other party had failed to give him the promised warning of approaching danger. Three months.

THESE CHILL DAYS

On a day last week when the temperature for the twenty-four hours shifted sluggishly over the space intervening between the 76.3 and the 93.2 marks on the Siccawei Observatory thermometer, a Chinese police constable patrolling Quinsan Road at 5 o'clock of the morning had his personal temperature boosted several degrees by the sight of Wong Ah-san, who shot suddenly out of a dim alleyway and off down the street at a terrific pace.

So affected was the policeman by this defiance of the atmospheric oppression that he pounded perspiringly away in the wake of the sprinter, overhauled and arrested him. Wong admitted that he was not acquainted in the neighborhood and was non-committal about the reason for his presence in the alleyway, so he was booked on a charge of loitering with intent to commit a felony. When he appeared in the Mixed Court to answer to the allegation he tendered the following explanation:

"On the night before the morning in question I was on my way home. I grew very drowsy and as it was still a long way home I went into the alleyway and went to sleep. When I woke up, which was just about the time the policeman came along, I felt cold. So I started running in order to warm myself. The policeman evidently thought the chill was in my conscience."

The Court, looking a bit dazed, fanned itself vigorously, mopped its brow and told Wong that the "loitering" charge against him was dismissed and he had better get out of the draft of the fan and into the sunlight before glaciation set in.

A POINT OF LOCATION

Waung Tsan-shing was quite frank about having taken the cotton. His work as coolie in the cotton mill, he explained, entailed a lot of heavy lifting and the bamboo carrying pole used to bite into his shoulder pretty viciously along toward the end of the day. So he picked up a little loose cotton, just a couple of handsful, and stuffed it inside his shirt in order to take some of the strain off his collarbone. And, Waung lugubriously concluded, the lynx-eyed watchman, seeing this, had collared him, bringing him to face this outrageous accusation of theft.

Waung's story rated well until the watchman gave his version, which was that the cotton had been found packed into the coolie's trouser legs. Three weeks for Waung.

AMAH ENDS LIFE

A Japanese amah employed in the house of the manager of the M. B. Lumber Company, in Yangtszepoo, committed suicide Monday night by jumping into the river opposite the house of her employer. She was said to be suffering from an internal trouble. Her husband, a cook employed in the same house, is confined to hospital at the present time.

MITSUI RADIO STATION NEAR PEKING IS NOW IN OPERATION

Japanese Communicate With Europe In Tests

SOON OPEN

Will Not "Talk" With The United States

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Peking, July 31.—The Mitsui Company today informed THE CHINA PRESS correspondent that the Peking wireless station had been completed and that the station had already informally communicated with France, Germany and England directly.

Beginning on Wednesday formal tests will be made daily at stated hours for a period of two months when the plant will be opened commercially.

No effort had been made to arrange tests with the Radio Corporation of America stations because that concern is backing the Federal, which is at present involved in a dispute with the Mitsui company over the Japanese claim of a wireless monopoly in China. It is said that the Mitsui station will work only with Japan and Europe.

Two Vessels To Be Converted Into Airplane Tenders

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 26.—On the assumption that the Naval Treaty comes into effect at the beginning of next month, all the necessary naval scrapping of warships, as agreed on at the Washington Conference, is now being taken in hand by the Imperial Navy Department, says the Jiji.

Instructions have just been issued to the Commandants of the Yokosuka Naval Port and of the Kure Naval Port to convert H. I. J. M. S. Amagi and Akagi into aeroplane tenders.

These two battle cruisers will as aeroplane carriers embody the results of the careful study of modern equipment and the experience gained from the construction of their predecessor, the Hosho. The work of conversion will be completed by 1925.

Expect Government To Intervene In Coal Miners Strike

(BY UNITED PRESS)
Special to The China Press

Washington, July 31.—Government officials generally expect the Government to intervene in the anthracite coal miners strike.

Federalisation of the coal mines has been suggested, but to what extent the proposed federalisation will be carried has not been predicted.

It will probably be used only to the extent of placing the mines under a Joint Advisory commission. The operators today offered their services to the Government in the event of a strike and government control of the mines.

Radio Campaign For Presidency, New Ford Story

Detroit.—Henry Ford is planning a novel campaign which involves, it is said, the construction of the most powerful radio station in the United States, from which his speeches will be broadcasted during the coming Presidential campaign.

It is also said that the automobile manufacturer proposes to distribute radio-receiving sets throughout the country to persons purchasing automobiles.

NO PANAMA TRIP

Illness Attributed To Strain Of Many Speeches

(BY UNITED PRESS)
(Special To The China Press)

San Francisco, July 30.—The specialists called in to attend President Harding, whose condition is reported as very grave, today said that the President's relapse was caused by poisoning and over exertion.

His condition, they said, was serious, and to recover it will entail his taking an extended and complete rest, abstaining from writing or delivering any speeches for some time and stopping all possible work.

As a result of the serious turn his illness has taken the President's proposed trip to Panama has been cancelled, and his tour will end here. It is not known how long it will be before he returns to Washington.

(Reuter's Service)

San Francisco, July 31.—President Harding's physicians state that his condition is grave. Definite patches of broncho-pneumonia have developed in the right lung.

(Reuter's Service)

San Francisco, July 31.—A physicians' bulletin regarding the condition of President Harding, issued late last evening after consultation, says that the broncho-pneumonia patches were indicated clinically and through the X-ray. Nourishment is being taken. The abdominal symptoms are less noticeable. "While his condition is grave he is temperamentally well-adapted to make a strong fight against infection. His pulse, temperature and respiration are about the same as the previous report."

The President's personal physician, General Sawyer, said that pneumonia was the complication he had feared most. "We are running with a very handicapped machine." All the complications discovered had united in increasing the strain on the heart.

The President is cheerful, General Sawyer said that when he told his patient that he desired to X-ray his chest he replied: "Come on. I've nothing to conceal."

(Reuter's Service)

San Francisco, July 30.—This evening's bulletin says that President Harding, except for weakness and restlessness passed a fairly comfortable day, though his condition is serious. His temperature is 100.6, pulse 125, and respiration 44 and somewhat irregular. There is some cough and congestion of one lung. He has taken some nourishment.

(Reuter's Service)

San Francisco, July 30.—President Harding's personal physician, General Sawyer, says that his illness is due to crabs which he ate on board ship before he arrived at Vancouver. He expresses the opinion that they were impregnated with copper from deposits lying along the shore. The President seemed to be recovering until he reached Seattle, where his strenuous program aggravated the disorder.

A bulletin, issued by General Sawyer at 11 this morning, states that President Harding passed a fairly comfortable night, but his condition is acute. He has overstrained the cardio-vascular system by carrying on speaking engagements while ill.

General Sawyer says that it will be necessary for the President to have complete rest during the period of his acute symptoms.

According to a bulletin issued at 9 this morning the President's temperature was 101 Fahrenheit, his pulse 118 and his respiration 33.

RUSSO-JAPANESE NEGOTIATIONS ARE BROUGHT TO END

Tokio Parleys Closed As Delegates Fail To Agree On Joffe's Proposals

The negotiations between Japan and Soviet Russia, which have been going on in Tokio during recent weeks, have been broken off, according to an Eastern News Agency telegram received last night.

The 12th sitting in the negotiations was held yesterday, when there was a further discussion of the proposals tendered by M. Joffe, but the delegates of the two countries failed to agree and in compliance with the desire of M. Joffe it was decided that the negotiations be closed.

(Reuter's Service)

Reval, July 30.—It is reported from Moscow that the Soviet Government has appointed M. Karakhan head of the special mission to China.

According to the Izvestia, there is no intention of recalling M. Joffe from Tokio unless Japan causes a breakdown of the negotiations by refusing to make further concessions.

KIANGSU BANDITS ENCOURAGED BY LINCHENG AFFAIR

(China Press Correspondence)

Singkiangpu, Ku., July 20.—The wheat crop, owing to a cool and cloudy May, is about a 60 percent crop in this section. The grain is well formed and of good color but small and poorly filled out. Prices are high and strong buying from the southern mills. It is being loaded and shipped down the Grand Canal as fast as it can be bought. The farmer has more money than ever before but it does not buy as much as in the old days. Cloth, lumber and labor eat up his profits. He is thinking hard and finds it hard to understand.

The Autumn crops promise well, though low ground products have been damaged by the very heavy rains. The Grand Canal is at its usual Summer higher level. Fortunately the floods from Shantung came before the Anhuei high water arrived so that the canal and lakes could carry overflow without undue flooding. This end of Kiangsu must drain not only its own Summer rainfall but also the excess rain of Northern Anhuei and Southern Shantung. It is small wonder floods are frequent.

The Lincheng incident was followed with interest by both people and bandits. The professionals here have close relations with the Lincheng worthies. Great satisfaction is expressed in the release of both foreign and Chinese captives. The remark is, however, constantly made that owing to the terms of settlement more outrages are made more than likely. Indeed there is the report that local bandits have said they will carry off some foreigners that they may get into the army and secure a goodly ransom. Still during the spring banditry has been less than usual. Of late owing to the tall maize and kaoliang the country to the North and West is much disturbed. People are being carried off daily. It is the custom for people in this harried region to leave their homes after an early supper and sleep in the fields for safety. The robbers come to a hamlet or village and find it deserted. They have a new way of locating their game. A long rope has several stones or brickbats tied to it with short rope. Two men with this drag the bean and peanut patches. When the bricks show the resistance of some body it is investigated and an unwilling villager is added to the local "Sap" club.

The Canal Conservancy Board has about finished the double lock 10 miles Northwest of this city on the Grand Canal. The lock was washed out by the floods of 1921 and a wide stretch of country inundated. It is a very useful piece of work and should be of great public benefit. It is through this lock that the Salt Canal is fed from the Grand Canal, and by that canal much of the Liaohow salt is carried to Kiangsu, Anhuei and Honan.

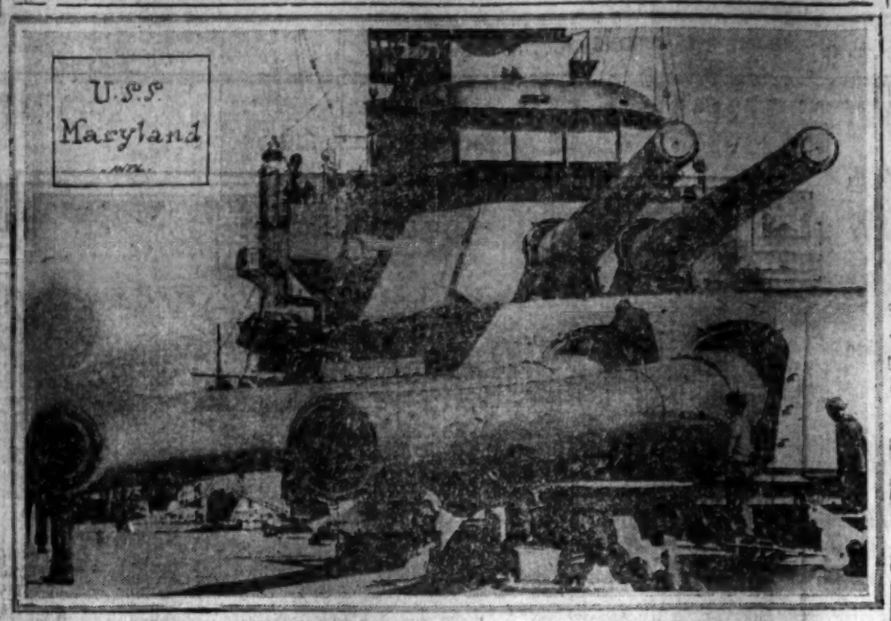
Maryland To Fire Big Guns 14 Miles



OR the first time in American naval history the U.S.S. Maryland, America's greatest battleship, mounting eight 16-inch rifles in her main battery, is to discharge her missiles at a target, 120 feet long and 40 feet high, stationed over the horizon 25,000 yards, or 14 miles away, to test the accuracy and dispension of heavy naval rifles. As the shells at that range will come down almost vertically and as the target will have no breadth, the possibility of hitting it is minute. The Maryland is the only American ship having a gun elevation of 30 degrees, though the newly constructed West Virginia and the Colorado will have similar elevation. The maximum range of these ships is 30,000 yards, or about 7,500 yards further than any other American ships, though English vessels have equal ranges. The firing, which will be held on June 7, off Piney Point, Chesapeake Bay, will have for its object an effort to get Congress to overrule President Harding and order the elevation of guns on other American vessels.

BELGIUM SENDS REPLY TO NOTE ON REPARATIONS

Favors Evacuation Of Ruhr Proportionate To Payments

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Brussels, July 30.—The draft of the Belgian reply to the British note of reparations has been forwarded to London and to Paris.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30, (Later).—Marquess Curzon this afternoon conferred successively with the Italian, Belgian, German and French Ambassadors on questions relating to the reply to the last German Note.

It is understood that the visit of the German Ambassador was not connected with any fresh German proposal but related to the present alarming political and economic situation in Germany. It is also understood that the French and Belgian Ambassadors left written replies to the British Note, which were not indentical, as stated earlier, but differed on certain points.

Marquess Curzon merely intimated that he would submit the replies to the Cabinet tomorrow.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 30.—According to a telegram from Coblence, Doctor Dorten, the leader of the Rhine Separatist Movement, speaking at a congress of Rhineland Separatists, at which there were 7,000 delegates, said that the Rhinelanders wanted peace with France but no annexation.

The Congress passed a resolution condemning the Prussian policy of revenge.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30.—The replies from France and Belgium to the British communication are expected immediately. Meanwhile Mr. Stanley Baldwin informed Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in the House of Commons that for the moment he was unable to state if any publication would be possible because he was afraid that the replies would only be a continuance of negotiations.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 30.—It is semi-officially stated that the Franco-Belgian reply will be a joint one as the modifications in the texts have been mutually accepted.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—It is learned that the Belgian reply favors the proposal to appoint a committee of experts to advise the Reparations Commission in assessing the payments to be demanded from Germany, and also makes suggestions for the evacuation of the Ruhr proportionately to Germany's future payments.

It is rumored that French semi-official circles are very pessimistic with regard to the impression created on the British Government by the French and Belgian replies.

(Reuter's Service)

Coblence, July 30.—The Central Post Office at Spire was closed down today by order of the representatives of the Inter-Allied High Commission for the Palatinate, owing to the refusal of the postal administration to transmit official telegrams sent by the Allied authorities. Seven officials have been expelled.

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, July 30.—It is stated that the Belgian reply adheres unrestrictedly to the principle that the Ruhr shall be evacuated on condition of payment of reparations and that negotiations shall only begin when passive resistance is ended. The reply further refers to "technical considerations" with regard to reparations which were recently circulated to the Cabinets of Paris, London and Rome, and submits additional considerations in this connection.

Political circles in Brussels express the opinion that the reply contains the elements of a constructive plan.

tantamount to booking a contract. The contract was signed later, the Compradore "chopping" or guaranteeing the transaction.

It is rather curious to note it, these days when a Compradore's guaranty implies a real guaranty amounting to 20-25 or 33-1/3 percent of the risk of the venture that in the old days a Compradore's "chop" was merely equivalent to that of a witness' signature to an agreement. Actual Compradore's guarantees came into force and vogue when the morale of the Chinese Trader changed and when his word was no longer his bond. The old dealer whilst a sticker for the exact terms of his contract was nevertheless an honest and tolerant trader and would exercise and show tolerance in unusual cases where a contract could not be fulfilled strictly in accordance with the terms of same. Repudiation of a contract was most unusual and even rarer was the incident of a dealer to go "Ningpo more far."

This state of affairs only came into vogue after 1914 when a new generation and type of half-baked, gambling and in many cases dishonest merchants supplemented those of the old school. The war was responsible for this to a very large extent and also the type of foreign mushroom firms which invaded China in the hopes of making a killing. China was possibly the one country of trading possibilities least effected by the war and it was looked to by many as being the Eldorado for business purposes. Literally hundreds of new firms opened up in China after the war, conducted by men of no experience of this market in many cases absolutely undercapitalised and in course of time they lost their investments out here and were victimised by the new class of trade that had sprung up.

The mushroom firms accepted all kinds of contracts and terms that they could not possibly live up to, mainly in the matter of deliveries and with the "war clause" for protection; many instances are known where such firms insisted on Chinese dealers taking up commitments even 2 years after the armistice. The Chinese were in many instances victimised and having learnt a new trick or two about foreign sharp practice they added a few more ideas of their own and a new class of traders and trading was evolved.

By 1918 the native trader had got the habit of gambling, not only in goods but in exchange for the Tael had fluctuated from 2/6 to 9/- in the pound Sterling and with the Chinaman's propensity for gambling and taking a chance, the dealers had left exchange uncovered on their committments and when the slump came they were automatically wiped out of existence and so were a very great number of the new firms.

The Textile smash probably caused the greatest wreckage and it was no wonder when one came to consider the matter and on examination found that both the native merchants and firms were both operating in a staple line in which they had not the slightest experience. The same remarks apply to other lines and about 1920 things were in a period of reconstruction and elimination for the survival of the fittest and some semblance of stability was produced. The following year only to have the native dealers go "bluey" again with the advent of the hundreds of stock and produce exchanges which sprung up all over the country. The native dealers figuring they might as well go broke as badly bent, saw in these "Exchanges" the opportunity of an easy way to a speedy fortune or ruin and took the gamble.

Two years of these "Exchanges" eliminated more of the staple trade and it is variously estimated caused over three hundred million taels to be withdrawn from legitimate trade and to evaporate. Is it any wonder that trade was shot to pieces and that the normal honesty of the native trader disintegrated and crumbled? A further reorganisation followed and the native merchants attempted to put their houses in order and return to a normalcy which just could not be attained. Political conditions in China were against them, and the experiences of the war period which had made them sick had to be convalesced and this takes time.

To the credit of a great number of the merchants it must be said they are doing their utmost to regain their former prestige and confidence with the foreigners and given time and co-operation they will attain their aim and recover and re-establish the old saying that the word of a Chinese merchant is his bond.

Judgment Given For Plaintiffs In Check Action

Judgment by default in the amount of $150 was given by Assessor Ivanoff and Magistrate Tsang at the Mixed Court yesterday in the case brought against Mr. B. Lubin, of the Josepho Artistic Studio, 21 Broadway, by Mrs. Carmen Boer and Mr. Ernest Senn.

It was stated by the plaintiffs that on June 4 the defendant gave Mrs. Boer a check for $150 for wages, payable on July 2. Mrs. Boer was indebted to Mr. Senn and turned the check over to him, but when it was presented at the American Oriental Bank it was refused, the bank officials stating that the drawer had ordered payment stopped. Demands had been made on the defendant but he had failed to make payment.

SHY PRINCESS ONCE FOUGHT DEATH IN SEA

Royal Maud Won Battle With Waves After Liner Sank Off Gibraltar

London.—Unless the Prince of Wales or one of his brothers becomes engaged within the next six months, which is not at all likely, the marriage of Princess Maud, niece of the King, whose engagement was announced recently to Lord Carnegie, will be the last wedding ceremony this year in which a member of the Royal family will be the principal figure.

Reversing the position of the last royal wedding, that of the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyon, the bride-to-be in this case is the royal figure, while the groom, as does the Duchess of York, comes from a noble Scottish family. The princess is a younger daughter of the Duchess of Fife, sister of King George, and was brought up with her cousins, Princess Mary and her brothers.

CUPID CLAIMS BRIDESMAIDS

She is the fifth of Princess Mary's bridesmaids to become engaged or married, the four others being the Duchess of York, who was married last April; Lady Mary Cambridge; Lady Doris Gordon Lennox, now married to Clarke George Wyner, and Lady Rachael Cavendish, who is engaged to Captain the Hon. James Stuart.

Princess Maud is shy and quiet and not seen at many big society functions. She leads the simple life, but has a good deal of spirit and is a fine athlete. It was she who taught Princess Mary how to swim, and she holds a record for having captured the biggest salmon ever taken on the Dee, in the neighborhood of which she has spent a great deal of her life. She is credited with having conferred nicknames on most of her royal relatives, her mother—who as eldest daughter of Queen Alexandra bears the title of "Princess Royal"—being "Her Royal Shyness," while the Duke of York figures as "the Lobster."

Both the princess and her fiancé are thirty, Lord Carnegie being a few months younger. In the same year that marked her debut, 1911, she, her parents and her sister, Princess Alexandra, who married Prince Arthur of Connaught, had a narrow escape from drowning. In the autumn of that year, at the end of the season, they left England in the Delhi in order to spend the winter in Egypt, but the liner was wrecked just off Gibraltar, and the boat in which the royal party made their escape from the stranded vessel sank while still some distance from the shore and they were all thrown into the sea.

NARROW ESCAPE

There was a high sea running at the time, and, although all were wearing life belts, it was some time before they eventually reached the beach. The Duke of Fife never recovered from the effects of this accident, and died a few weeks later in Egypt.

Lord Carnegie is the eldest son and heir of the earldom of Southesk, dating back to the reign of Charles I, when Sir David Carnegie was first created Lord Carnegie of Kinnaird, later being advanced to the earldom of Southesk. This is the second time Carnegie has been engaged, the first having been broken off within six months, being to the Hon. Anne Thesiger, daughter of Lord Chelmsford, whom he met while aide-de-camp to her father, then Viceroy of India, early in 1919.

The Southesk family is wealthy, the earl owning about 27,780 acres, including a wonderful walled park of 1,300 acres at Kinnaird, containing numbers of red deer, Japanese deer and a herd of Highland cattle, of which his grandfather was so proud that, when dying, he asked for a parade of the finest heads to be held in front of the castle, where he saw them from a couch at the window. Kinnaird Castle, one of the three seats of Southesk, was burned in 1921, when many unreplaceable valuables was lost including Raeburn's portrait of Lady Carnegie, which was valued at £50,000.

Errors In Sixth Give Marines Another Game; Zenman Gives But 1 Hit

Erstwhile Gallopers Go Along Nicely Until Near End, When Taylor, Pitching, Loses Control Temporarily; Bills Catches Fine Game; Herby Get, Attack Of Shuflitis

By Westa

Herby Gallop, whose flivver has developed a balky streak recently, called in a couple of factory experts yesterday to see if they couldn't induce the old cart to pull itself out of the mud hole in which it became mired the day the Peking Marines landed in town.

The factory hands that Herby summoned were none other than Al Taylor and Freddy Bills, both of whom are on Mr. Ford's pay roll as experts.

"Al," said Herby, "you get in front of the old bus and pull, and Freddy you get behind her and push. As for me, I'll hold the wheel."

Al and Freddy almost fainted when they heard Herby say he would hold the wheel, as both realised that it would be asking a lot of Lizzie to transport the manager on a level road, to say nothing of pulling him out of a mud hole.

Freddy looked at Herby in blank amazement, and asked him, after recovering his voice, if he thought flivvers were caterpiller tractors, or words to that effect. Herby, however, was so busy squeezing himself into the seat that this bit of sarcasm was wasted.

Freddy and Al have tremendous confidence in flivvers, so they went to work, Al pulling and Freddy pushing, and despite the fact that Lizzie was up to her hubs in mud and quicksand, with her chassis scraping and dragging on account of the chauffeur, they soon had her front wheels high and dry and were on the point of getting her completely out when the chauffeur became excited.

This was in the sixth inning. Previous to this session Lizzie had been puffing and choking and getting her carbureter tangled up with her differential, but still making progress. Freddy and Al were giving her everything they had in the way of expert technical assistance, tuning her cylinders, short circuiting her transmission and the like and were just on the verge of success when the chauffeur, as stated, got all excited and began bouncing up and down in the seat.

With Herby as the chauffeur you can imagine what effect that had.

Previous to this Al, who had become somewhat wearied from his efforts, began to toss his tool around wildly. He threw four of them at Benson, a Marine who happened to be standing near but missing him. The umpire ordered Benson to move down to first base where he would be out of the way. He then heaved one at Moore, another Marine, with such vicious intent that he couldn't get out of the way, the implement catching him squarely in the ribs. The ump ordered him to move down to first, out of the danger zone. Al then turned on Crowder, still another Marine, and heaved four at him. The ump waved him to first, out of harm's path.

This was when the chauffeur got excited. Jumping up and down wildly in his seat he ordered Al out of the game. Also the other Taylor, who up to that time had been giving yeoman assistance. He sent Pepper from shortstop to right field and moved Bullard over to Texas Oil Taylor's place in left. Thatch was told to take Pepper's place at short and Jack Smith was called in to second, while Posnecki was summoned to relieve Al, who was shifted to center.

In all this mixup it was not strange that strange things happened, or that the Marines, who had been waiting for just such an opportunity, took advantage of the mix up to push Lizzie deeper into the mud than ever.

Well, to make a long story short, they got six runs on one hit, three errors, two bases on balls and a hit batsman.

That was about all there was to it. Up to the sixth, with Al Taylor pitching and Freddy Bills catching it looked like we were going to win a game at last. True, we were one run behind, but that wasn't so much, the way Taylor was going.

Then came the horrible sixth. Pepper, playing short, started the trouble by heaving an easy roller from Donovan's bat over Scott's head at first. Then followed a base on balls, a strike out, a hit batsman, another base on balls, a bobble by Thatch on a drive that Posnecki, who had relieved Taylor, knocked down, an out to left field, and a bobble and a wild throw on the same ball by Pepper, in right. During all this the runs came in so fast that it was hard to keep track of them.

Be it said for Zenman, the Marine pitcher, that he threw a wonderful game, holding the erstwhile Gallopers to one hit, a terrific three base wallop to the golf clubhouse by Posnecki. Outside of that one clout the locals were helpless before his fast left handed shoots.

Holder, Charles Ledoux, Loses To Bugler Lake In 20 Rounds

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30.—In a twenty-round boxing contest for the Bantam-weight Championship of Europe at the Albert Hall tonight Bugler Lake of Plymouth beat the holder, the Frenchman, Charles Ledoux, on points.

Ledoux crouched and bored in continually, but was generally met with stiff upper cuts and left and right hooks. He was twice cautioned for butting. In the 2nd round Lake was shaken by a nasty left and right to the jaw, but after that scored cleverly with a good variety of blows and established a commanding lead on points. Ledoux was always dangerous, however, with hurricane rushes and left and right swings. Towards the end he tried his hardest for a knock out, Lake cleverly eluded him and won by a good margin.

Wade And Toba Battle Four Sets To A Tie Match

John L. Wade displayed some of the classiest tennis seen on the local courts in a blue moon yesterday on the Hotel Majestic courts and, battling every inch of the way through four gruelling sets, held Toba, the star of the Japanese tennis sharks now invading Shanghai and a reserve on the Japanese Davis Cup team, to a tie, each winning two sets. The score for Wade: 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 and 3-6.

Shanghai's other representative in the crack tennis tournament, J. H. Potts, was an easy victim for Ukekawa, losing in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, and 6-0.

This afternoon there are two doubles matches on the program, Abe and Kamazuma playing Toussaint and R. Canavarro, and Toba and Ukekawa meeting J. Elmore and V. L. Wei.

Wade's tie with the Japanese star was brilliantly won. Evidently playing with extreme confidence in the first set the Shanghailander took four games to batten up his confidence. By then, however he had so gauged the Japanese star's play that he took the next three games, making the score 3-all. Toba then stepped out and won the set but only after a grand battle.

Wade displayed championship calibre in the second set after he had lost the first two games. He won two games straight, lost the next, and then plowed through the Japanese to win on the visitor's service, 6-4. Wade repeated his brilliant play in the third set, Toba being unable to even up until the sixth game. Toba took the lead then at 5-4 and it looked like Shanghai was out of luck but Wade bucked up, took the tenth game 5-5 on a forty-love service. Then the Shanghailander won two more straight and won the long set 7-5.

Darkness had begun setting in when they faced each other for the fourth set after an interval. Toba had improved considerably with the rest and had better eyesight under the conditions which enabled him to win in handy fashion, 6-3.

Wade was better in service and his placement and strategy above reproach throughout the games. Toba had many double faults in service but played on the court with extreme ability although he still appears slightly unfit.

Potts' service was more brilliant than the Japanese in the other game on yesterday's card, but he was badly outplayed by the Japanese on the court. His attempt at smashing net play was far from being a success as the Japanese kept him on the base line a greater part of the time.

French Wireless—News And Views

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 30.—The members of the Canadian mission accompanying the exhibition train were received yesterday at the Hotel de Ville. They visited the exhibition of local industry and dined in the casemates of the citadel. Today they visited the battle-field of Douaumont and afterwards left for Metz.

The French and Belgian replies were communicated to the London Foreign Office this afternoon by the Ambassadors of the two countries.

Several thousand Rhinelanders yesterday at Coblence acclaimed Dr. Dorten, the advocator of the Rhineland Republic, who declares that "the Rhineland people must fulfil their true mission of intermediary between the west and east to maintain peace in Europe."

The Journal des Debats emphasises that, although serious revolutionary events had been predicted in Germany for Sunday, the day passed extremely quietly. The Journal concludes: "No revolutionary force can be perceived really powerful and ready to seize the power. Any Government, animated by a certain will to resist, would be in a position to meet the attack of the extremists. Only it is a question whether there still exists a real Government at Berlin. Chancellor Cuno is no longer supported by anyone. He is showing himself incapable of deciding anything efficacious to remedy the financial and economic situation. The plans which he announces are in advance treated as ridiculous, and everyone accuses him of having practiced a policy of absolute improvidence and insufficiency."

The payment of wages to workers in the Ruhr is still encountering the greatest difficulties owing to the lack of currency.

The Dutch press is complaining of the effect of the events in the Rhineland and the Ruhr on Dutch traffic and is showing itself severe towards France, whom it considers responsible for the situation. A German correspondent, however, writes: "The traffic under the Dutch flag has become considerable during the last few weeks. Owing to the growing scarcity of coal in the Ruhr, the importation of English coal is becoming greater and is almost exclusive carried via Rotterdam in Dutch vessels. The Dutch flag is now dominant on the Rhine. In the course of a single trip between Duesseldorf and Coblence I counted the Dutch flag sixty times."

Hungarian and Bulgarian questions were discussed at the Sinaia Conference today. An understanding was reached which will meet all eventualities with regard to Bulgaria. With reference to Hungary, the Conference decided to hold to the first decision of the Conference of Ambassadors with regard to the Magyar Loan. The Ministers of the Little Entente, however, hope that certain facilities touching the first instalment of the loan will be granted on condition that it is not applied to armaments or propaganda. The agenda of the forthcoming session of the League of Nations was then considered.

An air-route connecting Cracow and Warsaw was inaugurated today for the transport of mail and passengers.

The Oecumenical Patriarch has addressed a telegram of congratulations to Mustapha Kemal Pasha on behalf of the Greek population of the City of Constantinople.

The negotiations now proceeding at Lausanne between the Turkish and the United States Governments will be continued at Constantinople. The Americans are demanding certain financial and judiciary privileges and the right of importing without paying the tariff the material necessary for hospitals and schools.

The Czecho-Slovak Minister of National Defence gave a dinner at Prague today on the occasion of the 50th birthday of the head of the French Military Mission, General Mittelhauser, and expressed the gratitude of Czecho-Slovakia for the General's participation in the organization of the army and the education of young officers.

The grain crop in Czecho-Slovakia promises to be abundant. According to estimates the crop in Slovakia will be 10 percent higher than last year.

The Paris-London cross-rate is quoted today at: £1=77.99 francs.

Judge Lobingier Greeted In North

Tientsin, July 30.—Sessions of the United States Court for China opened here following the arrival on Sunday night of Judge C. S. Lobingier accompanied by U. S. District Attorney Leonard G. Husar and other officers of the court. Judge Lobingier sat all through the day on Monday disposing of a series of uncontested cases.

A delegation composed of members of the American bar, American Consular officials and prominent residents was at the station on Sunday night to give greeting to Judge Lobingier and his party. The Judge will be the guest of honor of the Tientsin Rotary Club at the tiffin meeting on Thursday and on Thursday night he is to be entertained at a dinner to be given by Tientsin Shriners.

It is believed that the complete court docket can be disposed of swiftly through the course of the week which will enable Judge Lobingier to proceed to Peking where he is to hear testimony in a number of cases before proceeding on to Harbin.

Government Predicts Big Increase In Cotton

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 6.—Naturally the important feature of the cotton market this week was the Government report on Monday. As has been the case many times in the past, the report was a complete surprise and much out of line as to acreage and crop prediction from private reports that had been issued during the month. Singularly enough, however, its condition figure of 69.9 exactly tallied with the average guess of some eighty Cotton Exchange members. At the same time, no private estimate figured as high an increase in acreage as the 12.6 percent reported by the Government, while from the nature of various individual reports circulated the week previous, the trade anticipated a crop under eleven million bales. It was natural, therefore, that when confronted with a possible crop of 11,412,000 as reported by the Government, the market should sell off.

Weakness was further stimulated by unfavorable political conditions abroad and by more favorable weather in the belt, to say nothing of a lessened demand for goods, and heaviness in securities. Prices gave way very sharply under the weight of local and outside liquidation and a vigorous bear selling movement, but met a good demand as October contracts approached the 23-cent level late in the week. It was contended by those who supported the market at this time that the crop must still pass through the boll weevil period, and being late, will be much more susceptible than might otherwise be the case. Once again the weekly weather and crop report called attention to the increasing complaints of weevil from nearly all parts of the belt, and this fact was not lost sight of by those who are keeping a close watch on the crop in all its phases. It is generally agreed that weevils are present in large numbers, but hitherto they have not been prominent because the crop has not progressed to a point where the pest becomes active. Their presence in Texas has marred somewhat an otherwise perfect crop outlook in that state, which led one authority to declare that it had a chance to make a crop of between 4 and 5 million bales. The weather there has been mostly favorable, although rain is now needed in most sections of the state, if present conditions are to be maintained.

Elsewhere in the belt crop conditions are mixed. Many parts of the eastern belt have had too much rain and fields have become grassy, although recent clearing weather will give an opportunity to cultivate the fields and probably improve the prospects. It was uncertain for a time if the big Government acreage of thirty-eight millions took account of abandonment, but later inquiries showed that it did, which led the president of the American Cotton Association to make a few pertinent remarks in the course of which he laid much emphasis upon previous mistakes of the Agricultural Bureau in issuing crop statistics. It is nevertheless true that the whole trade still depends on the Government estimates, and one effect of the last report was to check buying of goods on the idea that price levels were too high for present crop prospects and would have to be lowered. A number of New England spinners have shut down this week and others ran short time.

It may or may not be significant that even in face of the unexpectedly large Bureau figures, and the bearish surroundings of weakness in stick prices and unfavorable conditions abroad, there are many in the trade who anticipate ultimately much higher prices. Some base their faith on the probable spread of weevil and others on the statistical position for the balance of the summer, the latter pointing out that European spinners are now consuming more than 100,000 bales of American cotton a week and have fully fifteen weeks to go before they can get new crop cotton. Meantime, bulls note, the existing stocks of cotton in the United States, less than a million bales, are really insufficient to supply the needs of American spinners through the summer.

A New Orleans house thinks that eventually there will be carrying charges in cotton which would mean that October and December would eventually go to a discount under January and March, although before this comes to pass, they believe December will probably work to a premium over October.

FINANCES GROW WORSE BECAUSE OF CABINET IMPASSE

Police And Gendarmes In Peking Are Still Unpaid

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 31.—Owing to the deadlock in completing the Cabinet, the financial situation is becoming worse. It is understood that General Feng Yu-hsiang can derive $100,000 a month from the Octroi for the payment of his troops, but no funds appear to be available for the Metropolitan Police, the Gendarmerie, the staffs of the different Ministries and other Government employees. According to the vernacular papers the local banks are planning to hold a meeting with a view to [illegible] towards the payment of the police and gendarmes, but this has not been confirmed.

Considering the financial chaos, internal bonds have kept steady.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 31.—Marshal Tsao has drawn the attention of the Cabinet to the necessity for the return of General Sun Chuan-fang as Tuli of Fukien, and is requesting the Cabinet to furnish funds.

Peking, July 31.—General Hsiung Ping-chi, Mr. Tsao Jui, and Mr. Wang Yu-chih, the Director of the Wine and Tobacco Administration, have left for Paotingfu where the leaders are expected to hold a conference today. Peking, July 30.—The association formed by employees in the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce to obtain salary payments, have recommended that the salaries of more than six hundred advisers be suspended for the present and that the money that would go to them be used to pay the secretaries and clerks who do the actual work.

The association says that there is sufficient income from mining taxes to meet the salaries which total $146,000 a month.

American Beats British Kid Lewis

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30.—In a twenty-round middleweight boxing contest tonight at the Albert Hall Augie Ratner (America) beat Kid Lewis on points.

It was a keen, close struggle but rather uninteresting at times owing to continual clinches. Lewis was very anxious to get to close quarters and the referee was very busy parting the men. Ratner was generally better at long range work, landing good lefts and rights to the head and straight lefts to the face. Lewis attacked fiercely and in in-fighting occasionally sent hard punches to the stomach. In the fourteenth round he opened a cut over Ratner's left eye, but the American was not seriously incommoded. Both fought very hard, Ratner just gaining the verdict.

ELECTION TO BE HELD IN ISLANDS ON OCTOBER 2

Test Vote Set In Wood-Quezon Political Battle

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Manila, July 31.—Governor-General Wood today announced that the special election in the Fourth Senatorial District to elect a successor to Resident Commissioner Guevara will be held on October 2.

The previous date set was August 23 but the election was postponed in order to give the Democrata party time to reorganise and present a candidate against Senate President Quezon's candidate, ex-Mayor Fernandez of Manila, who resigned as mayor when the Cabinet resigned.

Quezon was non-commital when he learned that the election had been postponed except to say that he was confident the people would back up his stand for the independence of the islands and the recall of General Wood.

Guevara hoped to hold his senatorial office as well as the Commissionership, but General Wood informed him that his departure for Washington would automatically create a vacancy that would have to be filled by a special election. The election is expected to be a test of strength between the friends and opponents of General Wood.

Discuss Expense Of Raising Big British Loans

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Albert Bennett, Liberal Member for Mansfield, declared that the cost of floating the recent Straits Settlements' Loan was nearly £700,000, the Crown Agents receiving $209,000. He urged the reduction of such expenditure in similar cases in the future.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, replied that the actual costs of the flotation in the two instalments per £100 were £3. 15s. 8d. and £3. 3s. 2d. respectively, and added that the Straits Settlements' Government had expressed its appreciation of the excellent arrangements of the Crown Agents. The commission payable to the Crown Agents, namely, ¼ percent, seemed very reasonable and it had been approved for loans on behalf of the Colonies generally.

Nine Years Ago

AUGUST First calls up again the sorrowful evidence of the disaster which Germany's mad plunge into war in 1914 has brought upon the world, especially upon Germany. Today marks the ninth anniversary of that fatal adventure.

It had been hoped that ere this the world would be showing signs of recovery. But the world, as a whole, cannot be said to be doing so. It is true that certain of the great nations have righted themselves, to an extent at least that is visible, and that some of the smaller ones created by the Treaty of Versailles are doing fairly well. The United States naturally was the first to right itself but it still faces a huge national debt and the highest of taxes. Of the others Great Britain easily leads in the matter of convalescence. France's finances are in precarious balance, Russia is nowhere and Germany still worse off. Thus the two leading nations of Europe so far as natural resources and population are concerned, are completely wrecked: more than that they are refusing to help themselves and seem passively to be drifting into oblivion.

Another and probably even more serious aspect is the widening schism, the growing estrangement, between those brave and loyal Allies of the war, Great Britain and France. This, as we all know, springs from the disagreement over the method of enforcing the collection of the war indemnities. The British opposed France's seizure of the rich Ruhr basin and declined to co-operate in that action. Belgium took sides with France. Italy stood aloof. The result is that the game is in France's hands unless Germany becomes Bolshevist and joins hands with Russia. Of this there would seem to be considerable likelihood. The vanishment of the mark, the passive resistance movement, the increasing number of communist uprisings, all tend in that direction.

But beyond throwing the world into still further chaos it is to be doubted if such a coalition could save either Germany or Russia, but certainly for years to come. Poland for instance has a stronger army than ever before in her history and she would be on the side of France and Belgium who have never been more determined than now to assert their will.

And in case the worst should come, it is to be doubted if Britain would take any active part. Perhaps it is a good thing, after all, that the United States rejected the League of Nations. The world needs an umpire just now and America and Britain are in a position to fill that role for the saving of civilisation from the final collapse.

There are about 6,789 leaders in this country and only one grindstone.

Mr. Daugherty Rules The Waves

BY PHILIP GUEDALLA

On an October night in 1492 the captain of a small sailing ship called the "Santa Maria" sighted land. He came from Genoa; and when he saw that light ahead through the autumn dusk, he began to throw the drinks overboard. For he knew that he had discovered America.

One can almost see the scene—the sad faces of the Spanish sailors in the waist of the little ship, the barrels on the deck. Columbus's muttered words of farewell to a favorite hogshead, and then a dismal splash. . . . That is, no doubt, the version of Columbus's landfall which will be taught in future in the schools of the great Republic.

Purity, one feels, must be maintained at all costs—even at the expense of sound law and accurate history. Besides, it is almost indelicate to suppose that America was discovered by an act of open disobedience to Secretary Mellon.

Can it, indeed, be doubted that when the United States Treasury issued its order "To Shipping Everywhere," that magnificent ukase applied to all time as well as to all places? It is true that the facts appeared to point in the opposite direction. But Mr. Daugherty had seemed to say something of the sort; and who was History to disagree with an Attorney-General? She was only a Muse, anyway; and perhaps a Muse of Greek origin might never get past Ellis Island.

Surely it is more inspiring to believe that we have reached the culminating point of American history, that Franklin and Washington and Lincoln had all been leading up to this supreme, this unexampled assertion of the Will to Thirst. Perhaps the sad quarrel with the Thirteen Colonies was on this exalted issue. Possibly it was something more sinister than tea which the virtuous colonists emptied into Boston Harbor when they raided the East Indiaman "Gaspee" in fancy dress. Conceivably Columbus discovered America on grape-juice.

But one doubts it, somehow. It is gravely to be feared that those seafaring men, who were thirty-six days out from land in a vessel of one hundred tons when they sighted a low coast ahead, were supported by something more than a sense of duty. That is why it seems trifle ungrateful on the part of America to ban the means of its own discovery. Columbus would never have got past the Azores on the maritime diet laid down for him by Secretary Mellon.

Yet the significance of this rather futile controversy is more than historic. The United States may turn against their origins, if they have a mind to. That is entirely their own affair. They are equally free to restrict the liberty of their own citizens and of persons residing within the ample limits of their own territory. That is the right of any Government.

But when their domestic regulations begin to have consequences in British ports, when harassed travellers at Liverpool are reduced to making anxious calculations of their own cubic capacity for the purpose of placing an inclusive order for refreshments which, it is hoped, will last them until the long shadow of the statue of Liberty falls across their lives, then possibly it is time to begin asking questions.

It is easy enough to regard the whole maritime aspect of Prohibition as a farce, to laugh it off with mild protests about the wanton debauchery of harmless fishes on the American three-mile limit, who will now become the envied recipients of gallons of wasted liquor. One can hardly bear to contemplate the outraged feelings of Our Dumb Friends League, when they are told of the deplorable spread of alcoholism among dace off Cape Hatteras and hear sad stories of anxious codlings waiting up in the little deep-sea homes for Father to come back from the deadly lure of the unloading liner. What a tale will be told by the unsteady swim, the snaking fins, the coarse, dilated gills. Perhaps the poor, corrupted creatures will (after analyses in the laboratories of Washington) be prohibited themselves, scheduled as uneatable in a pure Republic. For surely a freeman, who is not allowed beer for lunch, can hardly breakfast off a herring that is thirty percent above proof?

The agreeable possibilities of the new maritime complications are almost inexhaustible. All that (and more) is easy enough. But one must not miss the point in the rococo beauty of its trimmings. No nation (one says it with all humility) has the right to impose its private fads on the international highways which lie beyond its borders. That conviction underlies the whole debate, and it is sound beyond argument.

The engaging manners of Islam comprise a gentle predilection for polygamy. But the stern American tourist who visits Luxor is not compelled by some Egyptian Volstead to assume a temporary seraglio before his ship may enter Alexandria.

And behind the vague resentment which has been stirred by this odd encroachment lies an uneasy feeling that the interest of the Supreme Court was less in the strict application of law, less even in the purification of the high seas where wicked sailormen drink rum and sing deplorab songs, than in the imposition on some awkward competitors of a disability which already lay upon the admirable fleet of the United States Shipping Board.

The suspicion may possibly be unjust. But it exists beyond a doubt. And something, if America sets any value upon the good feelings of the debtor-nations, should be done to remove it. An adjustment will undoubtedly be found; and one hopes that when it is discovered it will be announced to the world in language a trifle more consonant with Republican manners than the authentic Potsdam ring of that message, "To Shipping Everywhere."—Daily Mail.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

My native land's the fairest land
beneath the well-known sun,
Let no one ever mention it with any trace of scorn;
No other land has honor such as mine has proudly won,
For here—I need not mention when—I happened to be born.

Within the galaxy of States my glorious native State Outshines the others as the sun outshines the minor spheres;
It beats the others in all things that make a district great,
For in its records you will find where first my name appears.

My native town's the loveliest town that's marked upon the map,
You cannot find another town
to match it anywhere;
I left it for good reasons when I was a youthful chap,
But I have not forgotten that my eyes first opened there.

The little old frame house to which the stork transported me
Remains the greatest structure on this thing we call the earth;
Its equal never has been built,
and never is to be;
I know whereof I speak, because it sheltered me at birth.

The Seventeen-Year Locusts

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

The authorities in Washington announce the reappearance this year in fifteen States of the Union, including the District of Columbia, of the seventeen-year locusts, (Tibicina septendecim), belonging to the particular swarm, or tribe, that, with their stridulent music, greeted the colonists in New England in 1634. They were the first cicadas of the species that white men had ever encountered, and they awakened much interest and some superstition, on account of the "W" mark on the wings, which mystics still interpret as the initial of the god of war.

The division of these insects in the United States into some thirty different swarms, or broods, each appearing in a particular year and confined to a relatively narrow range, or locality, is one of the most peculiar facts about them. Although the periodical appearances of each of the swarms are separated by either thirteen or seventeen years, yet they are so distributed that some occur somewhere in the country, every year. But it is only when one of the most widely distributed swarms is due, like that of this year, that a real "locust year" occurs.

This year's swarm, the old colony locusts, will be seen in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. These are the real seventeen-year variety. Why they should be scattered in separate States nobody knows. They do not even cover the entire area of any State in which they do appear.

It has been affirmed that these insects are the longest-lived members of the insect order. They live nearly seventeen years underground, grubbing among roots, and then for about a month dwell in a winged form in the outer world. It is the males who play the music, which is created by the vibration of tense membranes on the under side of the body. It is said that the males never eat; perhaps they are so devoted to their music that they never think of eating.

One very curious thing in the life history of these insects is the way in which they change their skin after issuing from the ground. They climb lumberingly up the trunk of the tree on whose roots they have been feeding, and fixing themselves firmly to the bark with their claws, wait for their membranous carapace to split open along the back. Then the insect, not greatly changed in appearance, except that now it is furnished with wings, emerges, leaving the dried shell, which retains its form, attached to the bark.

The females lay their eggs in small branches, then nearly bite off the branches containing the eggs so that eventually they will fall to the ground, and, having thus performed their duty to posterity, depart from their brief upper-world life into the insect nirvana. The grubs born from the eggs immediately burrow into the ground, and begin their seventeen-year blind feast on roots.

The thirteen-year variety swarms appear in the Southern States, and the relative shortness of their period is believed to be due to climatic influences.

The seventeen-year cicada should not be confused with its relative, the "Harvest-fly," or "Dog-day fly," which resembles it in many ways, but has a broader head.

Inspired Because Inspiring

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

Inspired—by God! That is the usual association of ideas.

And, commonly, we of this western world limit inspiration to the Bible.

All of the various sects of the Hebraic-Christian religions—except perhaps liberal Jews and radical Unitarians—regard the Bible as literally inspired by God.

Others are satisfied to consider this sacred literature as inspired because inspiring.

This "liberal" attitude has one advantage, namely, that it includes the other.

The most orthodox person is willing to believe that, since the Bible does inspire, this is still another proof that it is inspired.

Be all this as it may, orthodox and radical alike are agreed that the Bible is the most inspirational collection of literature in existence.

Therefore, it is indeed the Book of Books.

Whether you are believer or unbeliever, of whatever sort, you will find the Bible the most helpful, stimulating, encouraging of books, an aid to those who would live in the spirit, an indispensable companion to one who wants to live the intellectual life.

Alexander Black, himself a brilliant writer and one of the most scholarly of editors, reminded me the other day of the value of the Bible to writers great and small—to any one who wishes to form a good style or cultivate the gift of expression.

And then he delivered himself further regarding inspiration, in his characteristic way that made every sentence, every phrase, the embodiment of wit and wisdom.

If dictograph and linotype had taken him down as he spoke, every word would have been fit for publication.

I know that he was right—because I agreed with everything he said!

We agreed that not only the Bible is inspired, but that Life is inspiring.

Have you every thought of it?

If those who rail against life and prove, by asserting it is not worth living, that their livers are out of order—if such persons really believed what they say they would "shuffle off."

These unhapy folks would more commonly leave life altogether.

But despite the cynic and the pessimist, we live on as gladly and courageously as we can.

We find life an inspiration, a summons, a battle cry—in even its mournful strains a gladsome song.

Whether into the Book of Books, the Book of Life, the Book of Nature—look deep, open-eyed, and you will find them all inspired, because inspiring.

SOMETHING FOR BABY

THIS is nothing but a slight jar in the happy holiday music; a minor note struck by the finger of Fate, slipping upon the keys, as anthems of rejoicing and Christmas carols make the Yuletide merry.

A reporter stood yesterday in one of the largest fancy and dry good stores on Main street watching the throng of well dressed buyers, mostly ladies, who were turning over the exquisite stock of Christmas notions and holiday goods.

Presently a little slim, white faced girl crept timidly through the crowd to the counter. She was dressed in thin calico, and her shoes were patched and clumsy.

She looked about her with a manner half mournful, half scared.

A clerk saw her and came forward.

"Well, what is it?" he asked rather shortly.

"Please, sir," she answered in a weak voice, "Mama gave me this dime to get something for baby."

"Something for baby, for a dime? Want to buy baby a Christmas present, eh? Well now, don't you think you had better run around to a toy shop? We don't keep such things here. You want a tin horse, or a ball, or a jumping jack, now don't you?"

"Please, sir, Mamma said I was to come here. Baby isn't with us now. Mamma told me to get ten-cents-worth-of-crape, sir, if you please."

The Household

TWO KINDS OF INTEREST

There are two kinds of neighborly interest. One amounts to curiosity and the other to courtesy and fellow feeling. The other day a woman pushed her head out of the window when she saw her neighbor passing with her little boy in a go-cart. "Has your baby been sick?" she called out. "Why, no," replied the neighbor. "Why did you ask?"

"Oh, he looked rather pale, and you had him so bundled up I thought of course he had been sick."

This was neighborly interest of the wrong kind, for it left the neighbor to whom the remarks were addressed feeling just a little crestfallen. She had thought that the child was looking especially well. No mother ever likes to be told that her child looks pale. Moreover, she felt pleased with the way she had protected him against the cold blast of the strong winter's wind. After her neighbor's remark she felt that her child really did not look well, and as if she had been reproved for dressing him so warmly. It was just a little hurt, but the sort that accompanies not a few neighborly remarks.

It is always a little galling to feel that your neighbors have been prying at you, to feel that they have been looking through your windows, watching the people that come and go, the automobiles that stop at your house and the delivery wagons that come. Just remember that it galls you to know that a neighbor has been prying upon you before you make the remark that may sound as if you had been watching your neighbor, even though you have merely chanced to make your observation.

Carry Your Lunch

Nowadays motorists never need to eat cold lunches just because they choose to take provisions with them to eating at a country inn. There are so many ways of keeping things hot that picnics no longer suggest cold meats.

Vacuum bottles and jars are, of course, no longer novelties. However, you may not know that there are vacuum containers made wide at the mouth in which you may carry such things as fried or friscasseed chicken, creamed potatoes, or any solid or semi-solid foods that could not have been carried in the old-fashioned narrow-necked containers.

Some automobile owners make use of fireless cookers in solving the problem of hot lunches. A small cooker is most convenient. Even in a small one it is possible to carry three different kinds of hot food. Not only do they remain hot in this way, but they cook as you go. You need only begin the meal when you start and it is cooked by the time you wish to eat.

More to the taste of some people are the oil stove kits that are to be had at stores or departments dealing with sporting goods. One of these with two burners weighs only eighteen pounds. Gasoline is the fuel used. It can be folded up to form a neat box about 5 by 10 by 18 inches. To be used with these portable stove kits are ovens. These fold up perfectly flat and can be stowed away easily. In these ovens one can roast meat or make hot biscuits, or simply make use of them to warm up rolls or other food before eating.

Some of the picnic boxes equipped with dishes, silver, etc., for motorists are supplied with little portable stoves.

Bernhardt's Brother Does Not Mourn Her

JOSEPH Bernhardt, half-brother of the "Divine Sarah," showed little grief when told of the death of the great actress, toward whom he is very bitter. Bernhardt lives in McAlester, Oklahoma, where he runs a little furniture repair shop. He says the actress could have done much for him when at the height of her glory, but that she did nothing.

Mexican Recognition Rests On Two Slight Concessions

U. S. Waiver Of A Point In Petroleum Question, Mexican Accommodation In Agrarian Matter Will Result In Satisfactory Settlement

BY E. J. CLAPP
(In The N. Y. American)

Mexico City, June 5.—After a brief session today the American-Mexican delegates suspended business in order to spend the rest of the day visiting the monastery at Tepozotlan.

The long theoretical exposition of the Mexican viewpoint has been completed. The relative unimportant stage of complete agreement upon details has been passed and the delegates have reached the supremely important stage of seeking agreement upon the method of putting those principles into effect. Already tentative beginnings of a solution are being outlined by the proposals and counter-proposals of the delegates. In circles best conversant with the subject matter and the progress of the negotiations, it is considered by no means improbable that the long awaited agreement will result from a slight concession by Mexico with regard to one disputed point in the agrarian question and a slight concession by the United States with respect to the second point of difference in the petroleum question.

So near are the respective viewpoints today that a slight accommodation on the part of each government will turn the trick without the slightest infraction of Mexican national honor or the slightest sacrifice of any essential American interest.

AGRARIAN QUESTION

The agrarian question turns solely upon the method of compensating American and other former owners of agricultural land whose porperties were taken from them in accord with the provisions of the Mexican 1917 constitution, ordering the restoration of communal lands to the Indians and the breaking up of large estates into peasant farms. Unfortunately the constitution provides that owners thus expropriated must accept payment in state bonds, and the bonds of many of the states would have little if any value at the present time. In article 27 of the constitution these words appear: "The owner will be obliged to accept bonds of a special debt guaranteeing the payment of the property expropriated. For this purpose the congress of the union will pass a law authorising the states to create their own agrarian debts."

The solution probably lies in an agreement of the Mexican Federal Government to supplement this insufficient form of compensation unsatisfactory to the American Government and—what is more important for Mexico—unsatisfactory to the capital which, frightened by years of revolution and upheaval here, seeks proof that Mexico does not propose confiscation. It is suggested that the Mexican Federal Government agree to exchange its own callable six percent five-year notes for these State bonds, which under the Constitution expropriated land owners must accept in payment. To the payment of interest on these notes specific and sufficient Federal revenues might be pledged.

MAY FLOAT BIG LOAN

As a matter of fact, in all likelihood the Mexican Government will be able to float a large American or international loan immediately after recognition and use part of the proceeds to call and pay off the notes with cash. Even if this were not done the pledge of specific revenues to regular interest payment upon the six percent government notes would soon give them a market value of at least par; that is, they would represent ready cash to the holder.

So much for the Mexican concession. Now for the American. Mexico ready to recognise that all American or American companies who owned or leased land on May 1, 1917, and by that date had given any indication that they considered their properties as oil land—that these people actually own the oil under their land even if it has been discovered since 1917.

On May 1, 1917, the constitution became effective declaring all petroleum underground to be the property of the state. Mexico is willing to waive this nationalisation of oil with respect to the oil described in the last paragraph. However, she insists that she had a right in 1917 to nationalise all undiscovered oil under lands held for speculation or farming purposes.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS ENDLESS

The legal arguments in the case are endless. They turn upon the right or lack of right of Porfirio Diaz to abrogate the old Spanish law which reserved for the state the subsoil resources. Very possibly the American delegates have the legal right upon their side. But there are Americans here who contend that it is hardly a piece of Bolshevism for Mexico to nationalise subsoil resources whose existence nobody suspected, lying under land which was bought without thought that there were riches under the surface.

As one American put it "some day we might want to pass a similar law nationalising undiscovered coal and petroleum and it would then be embarrassing to be handicapped by the precedent of having refused to recognise Mexico for having done the same thing."

Such is the situation today and such is the most hopeful direction to find a solution.
